

C O N T E N T S

Towards an African Philosophy of Environment Timothy Adie Okpe, Friday Achu Oti	105-108
Ethical Implication Of Environmental Crises On African Societies: A Challenge to Future Humanity. Joseph Nkang Ogar	109-115
Singer’s Notion of Speciesism: A Case for Animal Rights in Ejagham Culture Lawrence Odey Ojong	116-121
Training Children Environmentalists in Africa: The Learning by Drama Method Edward Ugbada Adie	122-128
Enyimba’s Notion of Madukaku and The Question of Anthropocentrism in African Environmental Ethics. Samuel Akpan Bassey, Thomas Micah Pimaro Jr	129-136
Outlines of The Environmental Ethics of The Ofutop People. Oduora Okpokam Asuo, Asira, Enya Asira	137-145
Some Indigenous Solutions to African Environmental Problems: An Appraisal. Leonard Nwoye	146-152
Environmental Sustainability and Development in Africa: An “ Egbe bere ugo bere ” Approach. Maduka Enyimba	153-159
‘Anthropoholism’ As an Authentic Tool for Environmental Management. Samuel Akpan Bassey	160-168
An Investigation of Obligatory Anthropoholism as Plausible African Environmental Ethics Chinedu S Ifeakor	169-176
Ibuanyidanda Neotic Propaedeutic Principle as An Afrocentric Environmental Prognosis to The Problems Of Climate Change In The Twenty First Century. Ubong Iniobong David, Efiio-Ita Nyok	177-185